U. S. Must Finance Itself in Future.

In the February American Magazine Merle Crowell says:

"Out of the complicated world situation stand forth two facts of prime importance to us: First, the United States hereafter must do most, if not all, of its own financing; second, this country, if it desires to keep company with prosperity, must quit being a borrowing nation and become a lending nation, permanently."

"To do this we need much more money than we have saved up; but, once having done it, we shall become the banker, the trade leader, of the world—the most prosperous nation in history."

"Taken altogether, the United States has a man-size job in prospect. It has got to stand on its own financial bottom, swing European war loans, absorb the three or four billion dollars of American securities held abroad, lend a hand to the rehabilitation of seceding Mexico, open its purse to those South American republics which formerly made Europe their bankers, and perform the other functions of fiscal agent for the civilized world."

"To carry through this program will require billions of dollars more than we have at hand—and the persons who contribute toward these billions are the ones who will share most largely in the national prosperity that follows."

Serum Saves the Hogs.

"The Nebraska extension news service," says the current issue of Farm and Fireside, "makes mention of the fact that the county agent of Madison county saved 438 hogs last year by giving them the anti-log cholera serum treatment. Of the 504 vaccinated, 194 had high fever. Only three out of 100 died when treated before they had the fever. Of the others 28 out of every 100 died. He vaccinated an average of about 10 hogs a week. Many other agents are doing similar work."

American Trotters Best Cavalry Mounts.

"The American trotter is pronounced by military men who have used him as the best of all cavalry steeds. They are better than the Thoroughbreds or any grades."—Farm and Fireside.

THREATENED TO SHOOT.

But Winoski Man Was Arrested Before He Carried Out Threat.

Winoski, Jan. 20.—Chief of Police Barber was called shortly after 6 o'clock last evening to 63 River street to the home of Carmelo Bellino, where John Giamoni and Fleviano Deulio were engaged in an argument. Giamoni is said to have threatened to shoot Deulio and went upstairs to load his gun with five cartridges. Upon his return the others in the house tried to stop him, but he threatened to shoot them all, it is said, including Bellino, who runs the boarding house and Benamio Incastriato. Chief Barber then appeared on the scene before any great damage was done and Giamoni ran out of the back door and Barber after him. He was caught and placed in the lockup to await a hearing on the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon. The gun is in Barber's possession.

A Long Story.

"May I ask the cause of all this excitement?" asked the stranger in the little village.

"Certainly," replied the countryman. "We're celebrating the birthday of the oldest inhabitant, sir. She's a hundred and one to-day."

"Indeed! And may I ask who is that little man, with the dreadfully sad countenance, walking by the old lady's side?"

"Oh, that's the old lady's son-in-law, sir. He's been keeping up the payments on her life insurance policy for the last thirty years!"—Tit-Bits.

A man was walking along the street, and he saw a house on fire. He rushed across the way and rang the bell. After some time a lady, who proved to be slightly deaf, appeared at the door.

"Madam, your house is on fire."

"What did you say?"

"The man began dancing up and down. He pointed above. 'I said your house is on fire! Flames bursting out! No time to lose!'"

"House afire! Quick!"

"What did you say?"

The lady smiled. "Is that all?" she said sweetly.

"Well," replied the man hopefully, "that's all I can think of just now."—Argument.
